For Erasmus students there are direct flights to Larnaka airport from almost all European countries.

* It is advisable that the students arrive in Cyprus during the daytime, when it is easier to be picked up from the airport.

Pick up service

If you would like to receive the College's pick up service, you need to provide the College with all the necessary flight details (arrival date, arrival time and flight number) at least 1 week in advance. You should aim to arrive, whenever possible during the College working hours (Monday to Friday, 08:00 – 18:00) so the college can assist you in your accommodation requirements.

Taxi to Lefkosia

If you have asked the College to provide you with a pick up service, then once you leave the customs control area you should look for a sign with your name on.

If you are not expecting anyone to pick you up, you can hire a taxi once you have gone through the customs control area. At Larnaka airport you can hire a taxi at any time of the day or night throughout the year. The ride to Lefkosia, where the College is located, will take approximately 40 to 50 minutes depending on traffic. The fare is about €38 - €43 depending on the time of day you arrive (all taxis have a taximeter) and can be shared among passengers (if more than one).

If you arrive in Lefkosia during College working hours (Monday to Friday 08:00 to 18:00) you are advised to visit the College in order to receive further assistance. The address and the telephone number of the College are:

Address: Americanos College, 2 & 3 Omirou Avenue, Eleftheria Square, Lefkosia.

Telephone: 22661122

If you arrive in Lefkosia outside College working hours and you have not made any accommodation arrangements, you are advised to go to one of the hotels as described in the Housing and Accommodation section. It is wise to stay at the hotel and visit the College on the next working day.

Housing and Accommodation

Accommodation is usually arranged in private flats or apartments. When Erasmus students arrive in Cyprus they usually find temporary accommodation for a few days (they stay in a hotel or with other students) until suitable accommodation is found. The Accommodation Office, which is part of the Office of Student Affairs, will give you the guidance you need to find suitable accommodation. The Accommodation Officer will gladly assist you to find the appropriate accommodation through a network of real estate agents. Apart from that, notices of available flats or apartments are posted on all college notice boards. Also, one of the best sources to find suitable accommodation are in fact old students who might know of available flats or are looking for roommates themselves.

Rent, as well as living expenses, varies according to the life-style of each student. The rent rates range from €120 to €427 per month depending on your requirements and the condition of the apartment. These rates do not include water, electricity or heating charges.

College registration for Erasmus students

Once you arrive at the College you should go to the College reception and explain to one of the reception staff that you are an Erasmus student who has just arrived at the College. You will then be asked to see the Institutional Erasmus Coordinator (Director of Administration and Finance – Room B106) who will welcome you and take a digital photo for the College records, which will also be used for preparing your Student Identity Card. In addition, you will receive a welcoming pack, which contains information about college rules and regulations and other useful information about Cyprus.

Registration into courses for Erasmus students

Dates when Erasmus students can register into courses are shown on the College Academic Calendar. Registration into courses usually begins two weeks before the commencement of classes. Registration after the commencement of classes (late registration) is also possible but not recommended. For registration into courses you will need to approach the College reception area, present your Learning Agreement and request to register into courses. Reception staff will arrange for you to see one of the Erasmus Departmental Coordinators or the Institutional Erasmus Coordinator where you will register into courses and receive your Registration Form.

 The courses you should register into are described on the Learning Agreement.

You should feel safe in the knowledge that the Erasmus Departmental Coordinator or the Institutional Erasmus Coordinator who will assist you in registering into courses, knows all the above and will provide you with the best assistance.

Buying your books

At the first class meeting the tutors of the corresponding courses will provide you with all necessary details (place of purchase, price etc.) regarding the book(s) and other reading material you need for the course in question. Certain books can be purchased at the College, but most books can be purchased from nearby bookshops. Instructions on where to find these bookshops can be obtained at the reception area. Below you can find a list of bookshops, which are located within close proximity to the College:

Pergamon Bookshop

12 – 12A King Paul Street, Lefkosia (Behind old Lefkosia football stadium)

Telephone: 22676343 / 22676178

Fax: 22676773

Phillipides Bookshop

9 – 10A Konstandinou Paleologou Street, Lefkosia (Opposite Eleftheria Square post office)
Telephone: 22674747

Solonion Bookshop

Student identity card

All students have their photograph taken during their registration. Student identity cards can be collected from the student affairs officer (Office R101) one week after registration.

You are advised to carry your identity card with you at all times as you will often have to produce your identity card before being serviced by any department of the College. The identity card is also used for using the library and the computer laboratories.

Important College IssuesAffirmative action

Americanos College provides equal educational and employment opportunities, upon vacancy, regardless of sex, race, age, religion, national origin, marital/parental status, sexual orientation, or physical handicap. Students who feel they have been denied equal opportunity should bring their concerns to the office of the Director of Student Affairs.

How to be a successful student

At Americanos College tutors expect their students to ask questions and use critical reasoning. They want students to respect their knowledge and opinions, but they usually prefer discussion and debate to respectful silence. Class participation is important. Silence may be understood as lack of interest or ability. Show respect by acknowledging the tutor's point of view and then offering your own.

Ask for help if you don't understand something. Tutors keep office hours for the purpose of helping students and it is considered normal to seek help or advice if you need it. The relationship between tutors and students is much less formal than in many countries, so don't be afraid to approach the teaching staff. Say you would like to see them to discuss a problem and request an appointment if they cannot see you immediately.

You will be given a book list for your course. You may be surprised by how long it is. Don't panic. You are not usually expected to read all the books on it from beginning to end. If you find it difficult to decide what the key reading materials are, ask your tutors.

In your writing, you will be expected to know when and how to 'paraphrase' or summarize another writer's ideas in your own words. You may find this difficult and be tempted to copy other people's work word for word. If you do this, you must acknowledge the source. Failure to do so is 'plagiarism' and is considered a serious offence in academic life. Borrowed words and ideas must be clearly documented.

It is a good idea to plan your time so that you avoid last minute panics over work to be submitted and also make time for rest and relaxation. Weekly or even monthly plans will help you meet your study targets without too much pressure.

You may find that studying at Americanos College is quite different from colleges in your own country. It is important to remember that you are not alone and that, as long as you are willing to ask for help, you will find someone who is willing to help you. If you feel you need help with Study Skills, talk to your tutors. They will do their best to help you.

Cheating – Using or attempting to use unauthorized materials, information or study aids in any academic exercise. Examples include, but are not limited to, using books or notes during closed-book examinations, using examination answers or questions provided by other students, using electronic devices to provide notes or crib sheets.

Fabrication – Unauthorized falsification or invention of any or any information or citation in an academic exercise. Examples include, but are not limited to, changing collected data to meet the hypothesis, listing a research source that does not exist, listing a quote that does not exist.

Plagiarism – Presenting the words or ideas of another as one's own in any academic exercise. Examples include, but are not limited to, when a student:

- fails to use quotation marks appropriately;
- copies materials from a website and incorporates them into an academic work without citation (also known as copy and paste);

- buys an academic work (papers, projects, essays, assignments, etc.); and
- aids another student in plagiarizing an academic work as defined above.

To avoid plagiarism you need to follow the college Referencing Guidelines.

Interference –Hindering the performance of another student.

Multiple submissions – Submitting the same written work for more than one course for a grade without the knowledge or permission of the faculty member involved.

Complicity – Failing to report incidents of academic dishonesty to the faculty member in question.

Examples include, but are not limited to, giving any individual other than the faculty member your completed assignment, suggesting ways to cheat or plagiarize, sharing test answers or questions with other students.

How grades are calculated and what is a GPA

Grading system

Grades are calculated in percentages with letter equivalents as in the table below.

% Grade	Grade	Grade Meaning	Grade Points per Credit
90-100	A	Excellent	4.00
85-89	B+	Very Good	3.50
80-84	B	Good	3.00
75-79	C+	Above average	2.50
70-74	C	Average	2.00
65-69	D+	Below Average	1.50
60-64	D	Poor	1.00
Below 60	F	Failure	0.00
	W	Withdrawal	0.00
	I	Incomplete	0.00
	TR	Transfer Credits	0.00
	AU	Audit	0.00

- The grade of “F” does not earn any grade points. This grade is given for a course failed.
- The grade of “W” indicates withdrawal from the course.
- The grade of “I” means incomplete and is assigned by the tutor only when a student has maintained satisfactory performance in a course but was unable to complete a major portion of the assessment (e.g. mid-term examination, project, final examination) and the reasons given were acceptable to the tutor.
- The grade of “TR” refers to courses transferred from other colleges or universities. The number of credits attempted for such courses do not enter into the computation of the Cumulative Grade Point Average.
- The grade of “AU” refers to courses students registered on an Audit basis. Students who wish to expose themselves to the material taught in a course without receiving credit or being assessed may choose to audit a course. Regular fees and registration procedures are required but the student is not assessed in any way, so no grades or credits are assigned. Students must designate their intent to register on an Audit basis at the time of registration.

Grade Point Average

A Student’s Grade Point Average (GPA) shows the average performance for the semester. It is determined by multiplying the number of credits of each course by the quality points earned for it and dividing by the total number of semester credits.

Example of a GPA calculation

Course	Letter Grade	Course Credits	x	Quality Points	Total Quality Points
CSC101 Introduction to Computing	B	3	x	3	= 9.00
CSC102 Computer Applications	A	3	x	4	= 12.00
ENG101 English Communication	C+	3	x	2.5	= 7.50
MGT101 Principles of Management	B+	3	x	3.5	= 10.50
MTH101 Mathematics	D	3	x	1	= 3.00
Total Credits = 15		Total Quality Points = 42.00

Total number of quality points (42) divided by the total number of credits (15) equals the Grade Point Average (GPA). In the above example $GPA = 42/15 = 2.80$

Your Cumulative Grade Point Average (CGPA) is computed in the same way and includes all courses taken in all the semesters and sessions. The total record of a student's progress can be requested from the College reception in the form of a transcript.

Transcript

A transcript is the record of your academic performance during your time here at Americanos College. It details all the courses you have completed during your studies with the corresponding grades you have earned. Transcripts can be obtained from the Reception. To obtain a transcript you need to complete a Transcript Request Form.

Student Services and Activities

Orientation

Orientation is an important service administered to all Erasmus students during their first days at the College. Erasmus students are required to attend an orientation seminar which, among other objectives, aims to:

- a) Ease the students' way to college life by eliminating all obstacles that might interrupt their educational progress.
- b) Make students aware of and experience all on and off-campus opportunities for personal, social, cultural and intellectual development.

During the orientation seminars you are exposed to a variety of information relating to your studies and the College in general. You learn about the College structure and its operations and become acquainted with its officers and staff. Moreover, you are exposed to and thoroughly briefed on issues such as your rights and responsibilities and on matters such as academic regulations, assessment and grading. Orientation concludes with a tour of all College facilities.

Cyprus and its Cities

Cyprus, an island-republic in the Eastern Mediterranean, stands at the crossroads of three continents-Europe, Asia and Africa. Its history and culture are a living proof of its age-long function as a bridge between people and civilizations of Southeast Europe and the Middle East.

Today Cyprus is a modern state enjoying a democratic system of government with a president and a House of Representatives. Despite an invasion by neighboring Turkey in 1974, which still occupies about 37% of its territory, Cyprus has managed to develop its economy to such an extent that it now constitutes a significant regional financial hub.

Lefkosia

Lefkosia, which is better known by its medieval name of Lefkosa, has a population of about 280.300, by far the biggest city on the island. Lefkosia hosts the seat of government, the House of Representatives, the Supreme Court, the Archbishopric of the Greek Orthodox Church, Government services and foreign Embassies, High Commissions and Consulates.

Lefkosia has the unenviable legacy of being the last divided capital not only of Europe, but indeed the world, following the fall of the Berlin Wall in 1989 and the reconciliation of feuding factions in Beirut in the early 1990's.

Lemesos

The city of Lemesos (Limassol) is situated in a picturesque location on the shores of the Bay of Akrotiri in the narrow coastal plain, between the two ancient city kingdoms of Amathus to the east and Kourion to the west. It is within an hour's drive from the capital Lefkosia to the south, the port cities of Larnaka to the east and Pafos to the west and the main mountain resorts of the Troodos range.

Lemesos is today the island's second largest city with a population of approximately 201.600, the most important tourist and commercial center and the biggest port.

The modern city of Larnaka is built on the shores of the bay of Larnaka in the southeast of the island, a few kilometers to the north of the ancient kingdom of Kition. It has a population of about 117.500 and ranks third in size among the island's settlements, after Lefkosia and Lemesos. Almost half of the inhabitants of the city are refugees, mainly from the neighboring Ammochostos district.

Pafos

The city of Pafos, with a population of 67.600, is situated on the southwest coast of the island. According to legend, it is the birthplace of the Greek Goddess of Love, Aphrodite. It was founded by King Kinyras in 1400 BC. The port of Pafos was built by Nicoles, the last king of Pafos, at the time of Alexander the Great. It became the capital of the island, replacing Salamis during the Hellenistic Period, as its masters, the Ptolemies, favoured a location closer to their capital, Alexandria. The Romans retained Pafos as the seat of the Roman Governor. It was there that Apostle Paul converted the Roman Governor of the time, Sergius Paulus, to Christianity. The city contains many catacomb sites dating back to the early Christian period.

Life in Cyprus

Facing a different culture

Coming to Cyprus as an Erasmus student will open a new chapter in your life. You will face different people, new surroundings, different food, a new culture. It is only natural then to feel out of place, to feel disoriented, confused and overwhelmed by the newness of sights, sounds, and behaviours. You are facing a “culture shock”. Do NOT panic! It is all part of the process of experiencing a new country at a new stage in your life. It is a step forward that will make you stronger and more complete. In addition, the people of Cyprus are known for their friendliness, openness and hospitality. Be open, as well, and do not be afraid to approach them.

Primarily, what can be considered as the core reason for the occurrence of Culture Shock is when Erasmus students omit considering the factor of transferring themselves into a totally new non-material culture. In turn, this situation also gives rise to the possibility of not being able to adapt to what is referred to as Cultural Diversity. In other words, people visit a different country and expect that their own ways of social function are the same as in their own countries and cultures, something that it is not true.

A non-material culture is in fact one of the areas which must be seriously considered and studied by Erasmus students prior to their visiting any new country, as well as upon their arrival. It includes important issues such as the following: the way of life in the new society, the way of thinking which exists in a new country regarding obeying the laws set by the state, the respect towards the peoples’ own cultural beliefs and traditions (e.g., in Cyprus one will find mostly a Hellenic-Orthodox Christian culture). In addition one must become adapted to social norms (e.g., common values amongst the people in what is considered as acceptable and unacceptable social behavior), social mores (e.g., most serious social norms such as criminal behavior against other people in society), values (life guiding principles which are strongly preserved by people as far as what is considered good and what is bad), and overall a person’s behavior towards the rest of the society. Moreover, one can understand better the society’s non-material culture if he pursues a basic orientation of history. For example, in Cyprus one should know that the Hellenic culture exists for thousands of years, as well as the fact that since 1974 half of the island (36%) is under Turkish occupation due to Turkish invasion, which occurred during the summer of the same year. Because of the Turkish invasion in 1974, there are 200,000 Greek Cypriot refugees living in the free part of Cyprus, as well as the fact that there are 1619 missing persons. In addition, in 2004, Cyprus became a full member of the European Union and thus it follows European laws and regulations regarding all areas in the free part of the island.

Aside from the above, Erasmus students should seek advising, support, and guidance from the College’s experienced personnel in dealing with a variety of questions that might come up regarding their new place of living. In addition, as in all countries and societies, everyone should maintain a factor of cautiousness with their everyday life and socialization, and keep in mind that in the possibility that any type of problems come up, they should report these problems to the their advisors and personnel of the College for further assistance and guidance.

Culture shock tips:

- Face the change in a calm and positive attitude; you will quickly get accustomed
- Appreciate the new culture and learn as much as you can from it
- Talk to locals, make new friends and share your own culture with them
- Talk to the Director of Student Affairs about what you are facing. Maintain a factor of cautiousness with your everyday life and socialization, and keep in mind that in the possibility of any type of problems seek the counselling/guidance that we are here to provide you with

Language

Greek is the national language of the island. However, English is widely spoken everywhere.

Currency

The monetary unit in Cyprus is the Cyprus pound (£) until 31 December 2007. As from 1 January 2008 the official currency of Cyprus is the Euro (€). Both the Cyprus pound and the Euro are divided into 100 cents with denomination of 50 cents, 20 cents, 10 cents, 5 cents, 2 cents and 1 cent. You may purchase local currency from banks upon your arrival in Cyprus.

Government offices' opening hours

All government offices are open to the public Monday to Friday from 08:30 to 12:30.

Shopping and going round the city of Lefkosia

Lefkosia has all the advantages of a city without most of the problems. As the city center is very conveniently organized, you can find anything you need within a small area and without getting lost!

Opening hours for most shops in Cyprus are as follows:

Many of the large supermarkets are sometimes open for longer hours. You are advised to consult individual shops for weekend opening times.

There are small local “corner” shops in most areas, which stay open until late at night throughout Monday to Saturday every week. They sell a variety of basic ingredients but are often a little more expensive than supermarkets. Ask someone where there is one near your accommodation.

Some of the biggest supermarkets in Lefkosia are listed below:

Makarios Avenue

A long Avenue with one end near the Hilton Hotel and the other near Eleftheria Square. This is the main shopping street of the capital. It is most popular with shoppers of all ages, local and foreign, as it includes three shopping centers (Galaxias, City Plaza and Capital Center), a large department store (Debenhams) and it also incorporates outdoor cafés along its length. The range is diverse and prices vary accordingly. There is an interesting mix of High Street names (Topshop, River Island and Mango among others) as well as more exclusive boutiques such as Betty Barclay, Tiffany and Escada. Here you will also find branches of United Colors of Benetton and Marks and Spencer. If you follow Makarios Avenue to its end, you will find some designer shops for men. Turn right to go to Eleftheria Square, which leads to the center of the city.

Themistokli Dervi and Evagorou Streets

You will get to Evagorou Street by turning left at the end of Makarios Avenue. It is an extension of Makarios Avenue and it includes sports and leather good shops, as well as a croissanterie. The visitor can stroll along narrow streets, go past restored traditional houses of the 19th and early 20th centuries, or even watch craftsmen at work. There is a plethora of cafés, restaurants, taverns, small craft and souvenir shops in that part of the city, a part translated as “Folk Neighborhood”.
